The Supreme Court has once again sacrificed the health and well-being of women to political correctness.

The elements of Whole Woman's Health v. Hellerstedt, would have provided safeguards for women undergoing an abortion procedure that would have been at least as strict as other free standing surgical clinics. In an effort to continue to protect an industry that is clearly at odds with the majority of the American people, the Supreme Court has placed the lives of vulnerable women in the hands of doctors without admitting privileges at a nearby hospital, or clinics that do not have to meet building standards that allow for emergency services. This is the real War on Women.
